People bled to ceat them then whehever the high cost of living shot por-terhouse steak up to 18 cents; and they were calso useful to piece out fried veges at 15 cents a dozen. We have never seen, in that interesting part of the Museum of Natural History where counterfeits of food are temptingly displayed, a ham that appeared to be worth $25; yet the man who sold the ham now at issue says it was worth that much, and the man who are it appears to have been willing to pay $P4 for it.

If a ham can be worth $14 maybe it can be worth $25.

How should a $25 ham be eaten? If it were to be fried, nothing would suit it but a silver skillet, nothing mate it decept the eggs of golden pheasants. A cold cooked $15 ham, such as the one which threatens to be an issue before the courts; certainly ought to be eaten with mustard grown on the south slope of Olympus or made into a sandwich the ate Friday by a vote of 31 to 1, and becomes a law. The bill provides for the formulating of a state highway system of public roads leading from county seat to county seat and in-cludes sixty projects. The projects will cover 3,000 miles at a cost of $25,000 per mile and be maintained by the State

The measure does not carry with it any appropriation of money to build roads, but this will come from various sources. It is estimated that $2,000,000 annually will come from a tax on whiskey now in bonded warehouses in Kentucky. $250,000 may come from license on race tracks. It is further estimated that $1,000,000 will probably be derived from licenses an motor vehicles and $750,000 from a tax on gasoline. It is certain that if Kentucky can raise her part of the money to match dollar for dollar, $2,000,000 angovernment.
